cash of $97,546,182 in May, 1949. Unobligated funds would not be a surplus.

Augmenting the financial blueprint were debts totaling $4,288,829, as of November 30, 1946, which will be pruned during the biennium.

He recommended use of $250,000 from the motor license fund expected to amount to $368,970,783 for highway purposes during the biennium.

By constitutional provision, the motor license fund has been limited to highway and aeronautical use.

Departmental Requests

Departmental requests for biennial funds amounted to approximately $602,000,000 and the message revealed the governor had reduced the total about $55,000,000; departmental allocations still were $15,227,790 below those for the current biennium ending May 31. He pegged the general fund for 1947-49 at $547,484,704.

Duff's emergency tax program designed to supplement regular funds, of more than $414,600,000 in the next biennium, was expected to yield the following amounts in the next biennium:

Exclusion of the "carry back" clause allowing corporations to spread tax losses when reporting net income, $20,000,000; postponement of the manufacturers' exemption, $24,000,000; cigarettes, $19,000,000; malt beverages, $22,000,000; soft drinks, $28,000,000; cigars and tobacco, $10,000,000.

Governor Duff left to the legislature the problem of adopting a bonus pay scale and recommended $21,000,000 for increasing teachers' salaries. Wage increases for state employees will be granted on a merit basis with percentages ranging between five and 15 per cent. He indicated institutional employees were virtually assured of pay boosts. No fixed sum was allocated for state employees' raises.

Soldiers' Bonus

A soldiers' bonus not expected to be payable until 1950 because of the necessity for two separately-elected legislatures to pass a constitutional amendment authorizing a bond issue to finance the plan which probably will cost a half-billion dollars.

Governor Duff requested approval of a $89,000,000 allocation for construction of welfare institutions including a maximum security prison at Graterford and a classification center at the State Industrial School For Boys at White Hill near Harrisburg.

The school health program, launched by the legislature in 1945 with a $4,000,000 appropriation, was for $7,800,000 to carry on the work bolstered by the governor's request during 1947-49.

He said the Commonwealth hoped to establish diagnostic clinics and employ nurses to assist in channeling children suffering physical defects to physicians for treatment.

Allocation of $135,875,000 for relief during the next biennium was proposed by the governor. The sum was $24,255,000 above estimated expenditures for the current biennium ending May 31.

Ten million dollars was recommended by the governor for stream clearance, water conservation and flood control.

Other Recommendations

Other major recommendations by Governor Duff called for $13,000,000 for transportation to schools, $750,000 for occupational disease payments, $3,750,000 for the Pennsylvania National Guard, $600,000 for veterans assistance payments, $2,000,000 for emergency area colleges established mainly to aid veterans pursue higher education, $90,000 for administrative costs of the federal school lunch program in the state, $150,000 for acquisition of surplus federal property for schools.

To help finance his financial program for the next two years Duff asked the assembly to lapse funds appropriated in 1945 and totaling $9,412,125 which were to have been used for construction of state office buildings in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, extension of the State Capitol Park, preservation of military records and post-war construction by the department of military affairs.

He pointed out that during the last two sessions of the legislature, tax reductions, mostly affecting corporations, totaled $94,487,300.

the general policy which may have to be pursued all around the world, inasmuch as the same fundamentals are involved in so many situations.

Implications Involved

"I expressed the belief the world problem was being considered as a whole and I expressed the hope that the President will give Congress and the country the benefit of the total implications involved."

The "fundamentals" as described by reliable sources are Great Britain's enforced withdrawal from such costly trouble spots as Greece and the resultant likelihood of Soviet expansion of influence. Britain has announced that she must end her support to Greece on March 31.

Vandenberg emphasized that U. S. policy in the Middle East "transcends politics and is a question of national policy of the highest and most important degree."

He made it clear that Republicans would not attempt to take a position on the foreign issue at Friday's meeting.

March last year, the fruit growers are not to anxious to see a repetition of it. Buds on the fruit trees were beginning to swell at this time last year, and burst into bloom too soon, with the result that ensuing cold weather in April killed them. Fruit growers are hopeful that normal weather will be experienced this year. So far, the weather has been what it should, even though it has been a little monotonous.

Effective immediately veterans of all branches of the service may enlist in the grade held at time of discharge, up to and including chief petty officer (acting appointment). Previously, servicemen of other branches of the armed forces were appointed to seaman first class ratings.

Chief Burrell also announced that three more local men have joined the reserves this week. They are Jack G. Cantey, 1606 Audley avenue; Anthony A. Monaco, 330 Division street, and Robert C. Stockman, 1237 E. Washington street.

Make Vice Raid
In Pittsburgh's
Downtown Section

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 11.—(INS)—Pittsburgh police and liquor agents today cracked down on an alleged disorderly house within the shadows of the court house and county detective bureau in the downtown section.

The raid came shortly after the county detectives raided a large alleged "bookie" joint less than three blocks from the central police station.

City police and liquor agents arrested a man and eight women—just across the street from the county bureau—in the Hour Glass restaurant on moral charges. A ninth woman was trapped in a downtown hotel room which she had entered a few minutes earlier in the company of one of the liquor agents.

Billie Schelbelle, one-time operator of a swanky Pittsburgh night club who was sentenced to four years in prison on white slavery charges in 1936, was charged with keeping a disorderly house, police said.

and that any extension of the agenda must be a matter of prior consultation and agreement.

Earlier today other Chinese government sources professed themselves completely surprised by Molotov's proposal. For the past two months Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government has conducted a vigorous press and radio campaign and has sent notes to the Big Four powers in order to forestall such a move.

In this respect, Molotov's surprise move found Chinese Nationalist and Communist leaders in apparent full agreement for the first time in ten years.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, China's No. 2 Communist leader, stated only recently that China should be allowed to solve her own problems without the intervention of any foreign powers.

Chou declared: "We believe the Moscow conference will not violate the spirit of President Truman's speech of December, 1945, which pledged no intervention in China's affairs."

Chou's statement was made at a news conference last week in Yenan, Nationalist-threatened Communist stronghold in north China.

Special guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. Suskovich and Virginia DeAugustine, of Beaver Falls, were in attendance.

Mrs. Tumlinella was the recipient of many lovely gifts in remembrance of the occasion.

gert was recalled sharply, especially his statement in which he said: "Germany should not become a pawn or partner in a military struggle for power between the east and west."

Second Session Opens

MOSCOW, Mar. 11.—(INS)—The second session of the Big Four council of foreign ministers opened on scheduled lines this afternoon, with Secretary of State George C. Marshall expected to present strong arguments against formal inclusion of the China problem on the agenda.

As against Marshall's stand that is believed to favor only informal discussion of the China crisis, the Russians launched an all-out drive for its inclusion as a leading topic of discussion.

Chinese Ambassador Foo Ping-Sheung conferred separately with French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith. It was understood that China takes the position she should be represented on the council if the Soviet motion is adopted.

Marshall is expected to take the position that China should not be placed on the agenda unless that nation is represented in the conference talks.

Issue Previously Raised

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is understood to have raised the Chinese issue during the council meeting in New York last December.

Former U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was said to have agreed then that the matter could be discussed informally at Moscow.

Thus Marshall anticipated bi-lateral talks outside the council without placing of the issue on the agenda.

Yesterday's surprise move by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the initial session of the Moscow parley was followed up pointedly today by the government newspaper Izvestia which urged collaboration of the United States, Britain and Russia in a move to effect political unification in China.

While Molotov's move first was interpreted as a maneuver to strengthen Russia's bargaining position at the parley now in session in Moscow, the declarations of Izvestia were seen as a possible attempt to gain diplomatic interdependence between the national governments in China from suppressing the Communist movement.

The China issue was thrust to the fore as deputies of the foreign ministers resumed work on draft treaties with Germany and Austria, the principal concern of the present conference.

Deputies engaged in formulating an Austrian pact reported their work was going smoothly. They announced they had agreed to establish separate committees to consider questions they had not been able to settle during their recent sessions in London.

According to the reports in the newspapers, it looks as though our representatives at Washington want to help those engaged in the black market, by keeping sugar rationed as long as it is possible.

As soon as these things are made free, to be sold to the public, the less inducement it will be for those who deal illegally in these articles.

GOLDEN WEDDING

OBSERVED MONDAY

Two Pulaski residents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Crabbe, celebrated their fiftieth anniversary on Monday when in the evening there was a reception in their honor at their golden wedding in the Pulaski Methodist church.

At 8 o'clock the bride and groom of fifty years ago renewed nuptial vows at a ceremony in the church in the presence of a large attendance of residents of the community.

To give her away the bride had her great-grandson, Donald Kusky, who makes his home in Pulaski with his great-grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell were the couple's attendants. Rev. Paul Alek, of New Castle, officiated, assisted by Rev. Edgar R. Tait.

Clapp Confirmation

Important Issue

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11.—Because of an unfortunate accident of timing, the confirmation of Gordon Clapp to be chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority has been treated as a kind of side show while the David Lilienthal row holds the interest in the main tent.

If the Clapp appointment had not come up until the smoke of the Lilienthal controversy cleared away, then it would have been seen in its true colors. In any objective light, it must be seen as the advancement of a loyal and capable public servant.

Clapp has been with the TVA since its inception in 1933. Since 1939 he has been general manager. The record established by TVA during the war is essentially Clapp's record.

Some members of the Senate have come to realize the importance of considering the Clapp appointment on its own merits. Senator Ralph Flanders of Vermont, one of the new Republicans in Congress, is one of these.

Two weeks ago Flanders announced his intention of voting against Lilienthal. The Vermont senator is a friend and admirer of Arthur E. Morgan, former TVA chairman who clashed with Lilienthal over policy and prerogatives some years ago. But Flanders will vote for Clapp on the basis of his record with TVA.

A vote against Clapp is in reality a vote against TVA. That was more or less clear in the statements of Republicans and Democrats on the Senate Public Works Committee, who voted 7 to 5 against his confirmation. Several of the opponents, in explaining their stand, said that while Clapp had a good record, they were opposed to anyone in favor of public power. This is a little tough on a man named to administer a public authority created by act of Congress, one function of which is to develop power.

If the Clapp appointment had not been under the Lilienthal shadow, it would undoubtedly have gone through in routine fashion. Senator McKellar could have been counted on for his Red derisive dance, but that would have been routine, too. Thanks to anti-Lilienthal propaganda, directed in part at least against TVA, Clapp suffered by indirect means.

The Communist smear is ridiculous on the face of it. TVA is an answer to Communism. It is a demonstration of what government and private enterprise can do when they work together.

This is the overwhelming impression carried away by hundreds of foreigners, particularly visitors from France and other European countries, who have seen TVA at first hand. They have seen that government can be a partner without producing regimentation. The farmers of the Tennessee Valley are not told what to plant or when to plant it.

As for certain sensitive and searching young people caught for a time by the glitter of Communism's easy answers, they, too, are proof of how TVA works against Communism. Henry Hart and Muriel Williams came of age during the uncertain years of the depression. They saw democracy at work in the TVA and they left the dead end of the Communist party.

The twister about Communism seems so foolish and irrelevant when it is put alongside Clapp's record as general manager in charge of operations. Judged by any standard, TVA's record of construction just before and during the war is an impressive one.

Dam after dam went up. TVA's output was stepped up again and again to build thousands of bombers and to provide prodigious amounts of power for the atomic energy plant at Oak Ridge. Hundreds of contracts were signed and not once was there a single interruption due to labor trouble.

Those who are against TVA and who will therefore vote against Clapp's confirmation conveniently look around one very large fact. Without the power of TVA, the war effort would have been seriously crippled. Even if you are opposed to government partnership in development, a neglected area, it's hard to explain that fact away.

The campaign against TVA has never ceased. Lately it has seemed to grow in volume, indicating powerful backing from interests that would like to kill this experiment in government. One way to do it, of course, would be to defeat Clapp, who is so obviously fitted in every way to take over the top policy-making position.

The confirmation of Gordon Clapp is an important issue, of any by its size. Those who must pass on it should consider it on merit and not as a side show to any other controversy.

CREEDS

Any creed I've ever read
To the Lord Almighty led;
And for Heaven he was fit
Who, in conscience, lived to it.

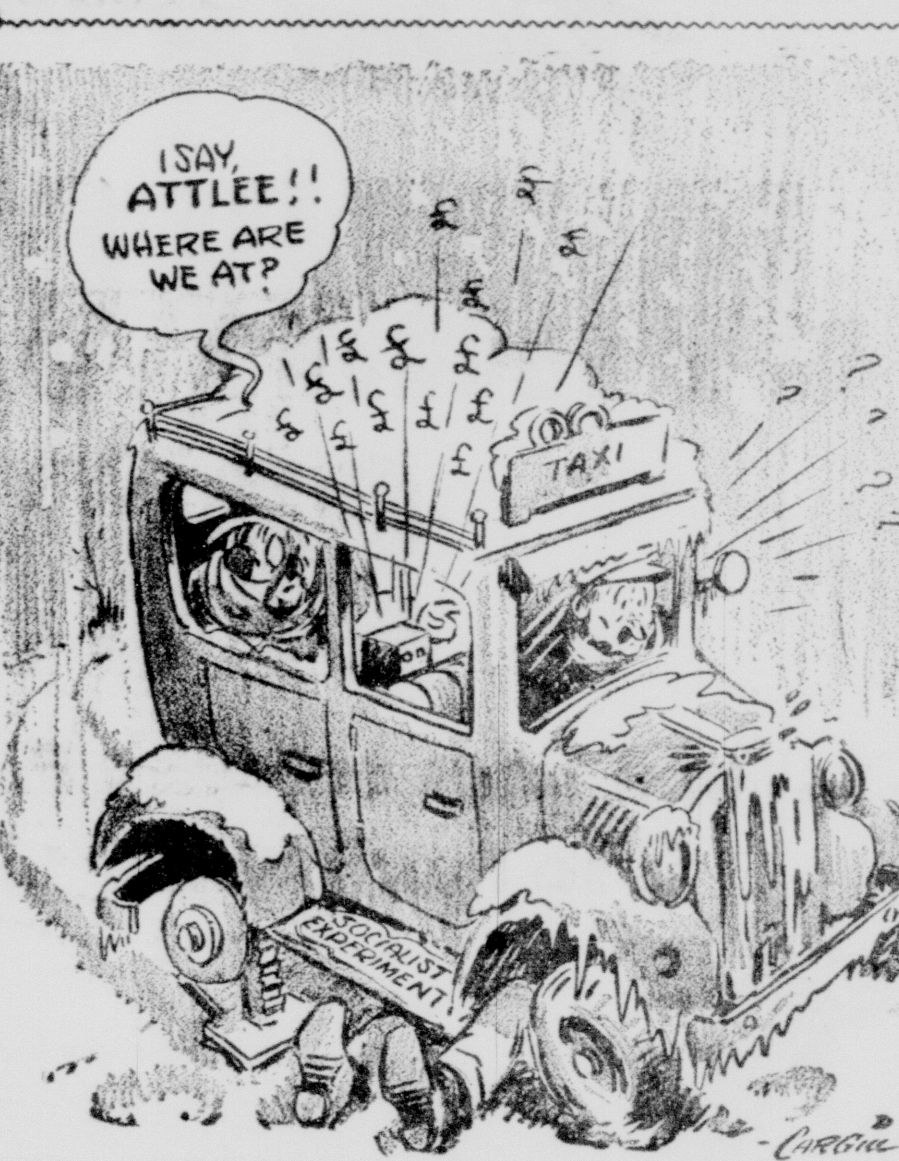

No religion worth the name
Leads its devotees to shame.
He who to his faith is true
Never any wrong will do.

Never any mother fair
Taught her child a harmful prayer.
He who does not her betray
Never fail to go astray.

'Tis the followers who fail;
Not the creed we should assail.
Had they lived as they were taught,
Only good they would have wrought.

One Man's Opinion

(Distributed by International News Service)
I hear that when Miss Truman told her dad "I can't sing for a week . . . doctor's orders" he said "Shucks, I couldn't talk from October until after election . . . Hannegan's orders!"

Margaret expects to sing Sunday night . . . Meanwhile Republicans kindly will not sneeze in the White House.

But there is no truth to the rumor that her accompanist will be a small, grey-haired man, wearing glasses.

Miss T's revised program will include one of her father's favorites . . . "Carry me back in Old Virginia and 47 other states."

In Moscow, Molotov and Bevin are both celebrating birthdays . . . That makes it very tough for Gen. Marshall.

The minute he makes a demand they'll chorus . . . "What do you think this is . . . your birthday?"

We will soon know whether they want to have their birthday cake and eat it too.

But better they should blow candles than fuses.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

The most amusing letters I get come from people who tell me what sort of fellow they picture me to be.

When they like what I write they think I am tall, slender, distinguished, with a faraway, spiritual look in my eyes, and I am a paragon of all the virtues.

But when they disagree with me—wow!

"I bet you are a fat little guy," writes a woman in California, "with a double chin and a forehead full of wrinkles. I bet you are crochety and mean and hard to get along with and I wouldn't want to be your wife for all the tea in China."

And so it goes. In one mail I am a mixture of Gary Grant and Abraham Lincoln; in another a cross between Goebbels and Satan.

Well, since I have had so many letters asking me what I am really like, I'll tell you.

I am neither a paragon of virtue nor a devil in human form.

I have my good points and my faults.

And, would you believe it, I am rather proud of my faults.

I should hate to be a goody-goody. I would be a terrific bore to me and to all my friends.

There is no such thing as perfection in a human being.

Behind the mask of perfection usually hypocrisy is hidden.

I try neither to preach nor to reform.

The best complaint I can possibly receive is when somebody writes me that my column is just like having a friend come to visit and having a good heart-to-heart chat with him.

Friends, you see, don't preach at each other. They don't try to reform each other.

They just sit down and talk things over as they see them. The benefits of friendship are mutual.

Friends don't always agree, but out of disagreement comes thinking and out of thinking comes action.

I have started on the second half of the first century of my life. And perhaps one of the reasons why I am sometimes accused of being a "goody-goody" is that I have discovered it is easier and more pleasant to be decent and simple and sincere than to be what some people call a "man of the world."

Life, I have found as I go along, is fundamentally not at all complicated. But so many people hang a lot of cheap phony costume jewelry on life that finally they themselves mistake all the jangling and false glitter for the real thing.

I am against smoking, but I smoke many pipes a day. I am opposed to drinking, but I do take a nip every now and then. I think everybody should go to church on Sunday, but I usually stay in bed.

I am thoroughly ashamed of all my shortcomings, but I don't intend to give up a single one of them. Because, you see, I am a human being.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD WHO IS A SPENDER

The average youth today lacks the first notion of thrift. About the first thing the average adolescent girl desires to do with her earnings is to purchase luxurious clothes and jewelry. She also wants the boy to spend his money on a girl. First of all, a boy wants to buy a "jalopy" or a car.

This desire for a car has caused many a boy to quit school to go to work. Often this lad's parents give him the down-payment on the car and even the later payments including upkeep and insurance. The insurance being neglected, the parents may incur serious worries and financial burdens.

The average high school youth has no more need of a car than he has of an elephant. A car frequently results in moral hazards to the thousands of junior and senior high school boys and girls toiled about, often at great speed, in the cars owned and run by youthful drivers. Any juvenile court judge can cite instance after instance of the boys, even from "good" homes, who have gone wrong over a car.

Most Reckless Drivers
Young drivers are, as a rule, the most reckless drivers, and the poor quality of car they usually own renders them more hazardous. Some of these young drivers have been tempted to engage in tire stealing, gas syphoning, and the like.

Why parents so readily sign papers permitting their adolescent child to drive or purchase a car is more than one can understand. Here is one place where parents who have lost all other controls over son or daughter can still reserve one effective measure of protective control.

Many youths who have failed to use money wisely and share in the family responsibilities live at home while being employed without contributing to the family support, without paying any board or helping with the household drudgeries, or even without doing their own laundry or tailoring or paying for (Continued on Page Eight)

The World and the Mud Puddles

T'WAS ALWAYS THUS

After the First World War there was a ditty which achieved great popularity with the service men in France: "We've paid our debt to Lafayette, now who'll do it for us?" The fact was, of course, that everybody owed us—including the enemy nation Germany.

During World War II we have carried practically the whole world on our shoulders. The few nations that have not yet had gifts or loans are still on our necks trying to make proper arrangements—including our pompous friend, Russia. If there should appear in the public prints today an honest accounting of the donations we have made, all the way from the Dominican Republic to the Latin-American nations to Russia and China, the people of this country would be shocked beyond measure. We have given away billions, but we have not only the certain knowledge that we will get no money back, but we are beginning to understand that we have not developed any good will.

Now President Truman sends a special message to Congress asking for authority to spend three hundred fifty million dollars for the relief of European countries. He says the money is needed to make up for the disbanding of the UNRRA—which spent our millions for the political advantage of such dictators as Stalin and Hitler. Some members of Congress have the audacity to ask where the money is to go and what for and why. This, of course, is strictly unethical, from the viewpoint of the one-worlders and international do-gooders. In fact, to ask how or why any donation of cash is to be spent in the international charity racket is to brand oneself as an isolationist or reactionary.

Compulsory Service Legislation Granted Faint Chance
Bay State Solons Dark Horses In 1948 Figuring
Report Copper Shortage Is Now Looming

(Special To Central Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11.—President Truman will move cautiously in asking Congress for a universal military service law.

The president has been advised, and is believed to concede privately, that the bill would not pass Congress now. Its future, from the administration's viewpoint, is only slightly brighter.

Before trying for peace-time training, the president will await action on his army-navy merger plan. After that fight, he still will face widespread hostility to compulsory training in peace-time, especially from Republicans.

Only a handful of Republicans could be counted on to support peace-time training now—or at any future time unless there is some unexpected turn in world affairs.

He does have, of course, the support of Chairman Chas. McNary (R.) of South Dakota, of the Senate armed services committee, and Rep. Walter G. Andrews (R.) of New York, who heads the House committee.

Saltonstall has put in universal military bills before the president moves in the matter.

But among other Republicans, the cry of "regimentation" would be heard, and they will contend emphatically that the traditional American voluntary enlistment plan is successful for getting peace-time military and naval personnel.

GOP party-liners have tabbed Massachusetts' two Republican senators, Lodge and Saltonstall, as dark horses for the 1948 presidential race if current favorites get in trouble before they hit the home stretch.

Oddly enough, the two are blue-blooded Boston Brahmins who won their spurs the hard way—and in the Democratic stronghold of Boston where Back Bay socialites usually get the jaundiced eye, politically.

Saltonstall got his Senate seat after his efficient, businesslike administration as governor dissipated his opposition. In the nation's Senate, Saltonstall has been modestly quiet—but has not hesitated to speak out at times against his party leaders, and even to join the "young Turks" on some votes.

Lodge, who gave up his Senate seat, went to war came back and regained his senatorship by defeating the veteran Democrat, Senator Walsh, likewise steps out of the leadership's traces at times.

Views Of The News

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(U. S. Foreign Editor)

An essentially minor but possibly highly important factor in the future of the world was on the unofficial agenda of the big four meeting of foreign ministers which opened in Moscow Monday.

It was simply whether world-famed Soviet hospitality has deteriorated along with the stiffening of relationships between Russia and the western world.

Extremely sensitive by nature, the Russians may have wondered whether their almost excessive entertaining on state occasions sometimes may have been interpreted abroad as a subtle form of bribery; and if this is the case there may be some slow down in the pace of banquets and ballets during the coming weeks.

Yet the Soviets distinguished themselves by mass enjoyment long before the second world war and long before the "iron curtain" was used in any connection except with the stage of an old-time vaudeville house or the New York Hippodrome.

Maxim Litvinoff and Alexander A. Troyanovsky were two of the old-line diplomats who set the Soviet pattern of lavish parties in a time when Joseph Stalin and V. M. Molotov remained secret and secluded in the Kremlin or at their country villas, proud that they had never set foot beyond the borders of Russia.

Litvinoff, now a retired "elder statesman" of the Soviet Union, long was ambassador to London and is married to an Englishwoman. Their embassy was a showplace of grandeur; their dinner parties never to be forgotten.

Troyanovsky was appointed ambassador to Washington in 1933 and his comparatively brief tenure of office also was characterized by magnificent displays of hospitality.

Recent dispatches from Berlin indicate that this Russian penchant for good living has been put to practical use in winning the friendship of the Germans. These messages say that industrialists, scientists and other of intellectual value in the reconstruction of Europe are being "invited out" by the Russians and lavishly well treated to prove their friendship should be beamed to Moscow rather than to the west.

The Soviet government knows, of course, that men like Secretary of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin are completely impervious to any such blandishments.

As a result, the old established order of good times on off hours during important deliberations is likely to prevail, with no chances of any misunderstanding.

It is an unique facet in the Russian character that while home and building construction in Moscow and Leningrad have been retarded the same as everywhere else, the opera houses and theatres are gems of cleanliness and perfection. The private theatre in the Kremlin is a masterpiece of gold and ivory white.

Old-timers maintain that things like this are not done just for effect. If the party invitations start going in the mail today, the world may have some reason for believing that Russian friendship toward the west has not evaporated entirely.

Recalling Mr. Dooley

After reading the opinion of the United States Supreme Court in the case against John L. Lewis we cannot help but recall the words of that brain child of Finley Peter Dunne, "Mister Dooley." It was Mister Dooley, if you recall, who said "civilization follows the flag, but the Supreme Court follows the illicit returns."

Not that we would suggest for a moment that the august body of nine men who sit in an ivory tower above the Potomac River are ever influenced by anything but a rigid adherence to the law. It may be a coincidence.

But it seems to be a fact that the returns follow, after a fashion, the sentiments of the American people who by their votes last November evinced a desire to get away from the New Deal and back to a Square Deal.

When Mr. Lewis asks for a fair deal for labor he is joined by most of the American public. But when Mr. Lewis or any other labor leader assumes that labor, as represented by organized bodies, is above the law or above the rights of the entire nation, he is dead wrong.

Under the ruling, which is the last word in our system of law, Lewis must pay the fine of $10,000, but the three and a half million fine against his union is reduced to some $700,000. Even this reduction has a modifying clause. Mr. Lewis must change his mind about his relations with the government or the entire fine sticks.

After the full import of the decision sinks in, after he has decided that the use of gas and oil may change the whole economic picture for the coal industry, in short when Mr. Lewis comes to a full realization that coal is only one element of our national makeup, we may get something like permanent peace in this field.

A Start, Anyway

House Republican leaders have acted wisely in deciding to open hearings on tax legislation regardless of whether the deadlock on the budget is broken. According to Speaker Martin and Chairman Knutson of the House Ways and Means committee, no effort will be made to report a tax cut bill to the House until the size of the budget reduction is settled. But it is not only possible but desirable to start work on tax legislation.

In the two months since Congress convened comparatively little progress has been made on the main items on the legislative program. Labor legislation is still in the hearing stage and nothing short of a new strike crisis can result in speedy enactment of a bill. If Congress had waited until after the budget is disposed of to begin consideration of tax legislation, much time would have been wasted.

There is a great deal of preliminary work which can be done and decisions which can be made without waiting to find out exactly how much money will be available for tax reduction. Congress has to settle the question of how the tax reduction is to be made. An agreement can not be reached in a day or two.

The original decision to defer tax discussions until the budget question was settled was understandable. But the committee might as well get started now, even though it will be hampered to an extent by the uncertainty about the budget.

Lost: 400 Farms A Day

The farm brokers of the United States, the men who negotiate the buying and selling of farms, probably know as much about what creates farm values as any group in the country. It is their business to set a proper value on farms, to prove that the farms are worth the price asked, and to be so fair in their transactions that they will earn and accumulate the good will which is essential to any continuing business.

Today these farm dealers, organized as the Institute of Farm Brokers, are carrying on a campaign to encourage soil conservation. Their purpose is, of course, to stabilize their business, but they state also that they owe their country their service.

Their reason for urging conservation is set out in their statement as follows:

"Our country still has enough soil to produce food for our people with a little to spare; but our own margin of safety is disappearing. We are losing 400 farms a day through erosion, leeching and soil exploitation. Every last acre in Iowa begins to feel the pressure of world need and want. There is no more urgent and important necessity for ourselves and those who come after us than to conserve the heritage which we have in our soil. This is our ultimate, our real and our only wealth."

This conclusion has been reached by other groups in other ways. The Institute of Farm Brokers has added its forceful appeal to that of others who agree that conservation of the American farm is necessary to hold the country's place as the strongest influence for permanent peace.

Seventeen portal-to-portal pay suits have been dropped in a single city. The real fun will start when the boys turn on the leaders who told them these suits were a good idea.

Proponents of government spending say cutting the budget would prevent the nation from getting ready for war and would endanger the peace. Make up your minds, gentlemen.

Do you recall the old-fashioned saloon which had a "ladies' entrance" through the side door where a woman occasionally sneaked in with her husband for a bottle of beer in a room set aside for that purpose?

You're Telling Me

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Writer

If that proposed merger of the United States and England should go through, a new language would undoubtedly result. It probably would be an unintelligible blend of Cockney accent with pure Brooklynese.

It's suggested that the combined country would be a republic with a king. That would be fine for George VI but where would it leave Mr. Truman?

Title-loving Americans probably already dreaming of the possibility of becoming the Duke of New Jersey or the Earl of Chicago.

Meanwhile, Winston Churchill could be grooming himself as presidential timber.

It would be a tough struggle but our stomachs eventually would have to be acclimated to a combination of hot dogs and tea.

Horrible thought is that in merger Congress and Parliament we might wind up with a House of Common Congressmen.

If the royal family would move to the United States American enterprise might turn Buckingham Palace into a highly profitable movie house.

If a merger of the two nations is to be a success, certain matters would have to be definitely settled beforehand—such as the British promising not to export any of London's fog to us while we would agree to keep our radio commercials strictly to ourselves.

Pennsylvania Power Co. Report Shows Progress

Pennsylvania Power company's annual report to stockholders, just issued, gives not only a clear picture of the company's operations during 1946 but also publicizes the industrial advantages of this area.

The inside back cover shows a map with a brief statement of factors favorable to industry in the area served by the company. In the report also are pictures of industries and other interesting features of this section.

The report has been mailed to stockholders and employees, as well as to other individuals and institutions requesting it. W. H. Sammis, president of the company summarized the more important developments of the year in his letter.

Evidence of Progress
He pointed out particularly the following facts as evidence of the company's progress during the year: Gross revenue was slightly higher and net income after preferred stock dividends increased over 1945.

Industrial power sales in the last quarter of 1946 increased 63 percent above the first quarter, and to within 13 percent of the highest wartime quarter.

The number of customers registered the largest gain in any year since 1938.

Average use of electricity per residential customer increased to 1,535 kilowatt hours for the year, compared with approximately 1,330 kilowatt hours for the nation as a whole.

Reviewing the industrial outlook of the area, the letter states that forty new industries employing an estimated 1,500 people were established last year. In addition, 18 existing plants completed or are making substantial additions to their facilities. The classification of industrial power sales gives evidence of the diversified industry supplied by the company.

The company's development of favorable use and price of residential electricity is shown graphically in charts. Not only has the price of electricity decreased over the years in the face of rising living costs, but the price has been consistently lower than the average for the state or nation and the use of service considerably higher.

The same favorable comparison with the nation as a whole is shown in charts on farm service. The company serves about 94 percent of the farms in the area, compared with an estimated 58 percent served in the entire nation, while average use per farm customer is substantially higher.

The company's employee relations are briefly summarized. A revised union contract covering wage changes in working conditions was negotiated and made effective June 22, 1946. Other developments in employee relations during the year included changes liberalizing the company's pension and group life insurance plans.

The report is attractively designed in color. The front cover picture shows a line construction crew stringing wire for the second circuit of the 69,000 volt transmission line from the company's own plant at West Pittsburg to the Cedar street substation in New Castle.

Excellent Concert Presented At First Methodist Church

Music Lovers Throng Downtown Church To Hear Concert By Musicians

Approximately 1000 New Castle and Lawrence County residents turned out Monday evening at the First Methodist church. North Jefferson and North streets to hear a two and one-half hour musical concert presented by the singers and instrumentalists of the Wells Evangelistic party who had just concluded a two week series of revival meetings in New Castle.

Remaining over for the concert was Dr. Robert J. Wells who acted as chairman for the program introducing the musical numbers as they were presented. As usual, Forrest Schickelanz, outstanding song leader of Peoria, Ill., directed the large audience in singing many revival hymns assisted by the large chorus choir. Mrs. Anna Gettings accompanied at the piano. The singing of the Smith girls quintet, which includes, Arlene and Louise Smith, Eleanor and Anna Chovneac and Arlene Reinhold with their accompanist Mrs. V. E. Smith, of Minneapolis, was superior and brought a tremendous ovation from the audience calling them back many times for repeat selections. The solo work of Miss Reinhold likewise brought round after round of applause from the pleased listeners. G. Howard Jones, known as the most unusual cornet player on the platform of American churches and Bible conferences today, thrilled the audience with his own interpretation of many gospel songs. He was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Jones.

As a special feature, Franklin Olson of Cleveland, Ohio, former O. S. S. man of the United States Army, sang several vocal numbers much to the delight of the audience. Mr. Olson, imitator of a cornet, with Mr. Jones and Dr. Wells using real cornets was one of the best treats of the evening calling for repeat performances.

Soloist Schickelanz pleased his audience with his singing of "The Ninety and Nine" as well as many other numbers. The evangelistic party will leave the city today and tomorrow to continue their work.

Neshannock Twp. Women Make Canvass

Campaign For Funds For New Fire House Meeting With Splendid Response, Committee Says

Ladies of the auxiliary of the Neshannock township fire department, have started their canvass for funds for the completion of the new fire department building, which is now nearly completed, and have met with a fine response so far from the residents, it was stated today by Mrs. Vern Dufford, chairman of the ways and means committee.

The committee, with the help of other members of the auxiliary, plans a house to house canvass, and hope in this manner to secure enough money to complete finishing and furnishing the fine new building.

The committee is composed of Mrs. Vern Dufford, chairman; Miss Ida Smith, Mrs. Joseph Brooks, Mrs. Edward Garner and Mrs. Herman Decker. In case any residents are missed and wish to contribute to the fund, they may contact any member of the committee. It is expected to paint the kitchen this evening, and the department and auxiliary is now looking forward to an open house when the public will have an opportunity of inspecting the new fire hall and its facilities.

Bessemer Plant Reports Good Year

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Mar. 11.—The Bessemer Limestone & Cement Company last year had one of the most profitable years in its history "and one which may be very difficult to surpass or even equal."

President George G. Trust said today, in a letter to shareholders in Bessemer's annual report.

Bessemer, in 1946, had net profit of $782,513 against $207,054 the year before, as a result of a more than 50 per cent boost in the company's volume of business.

Treat said the company put in a new type of equipment called a "tower excavator," last year and it sharply cut the cost of removing the earth overburden from limestone deposits. Directors also have authorized the management to buy another electric shovel and to modernize equipment at the cement plant.

POMONA GRANGE MEMBERS MEET

Plaingrove Grange Host To County
Meeting; Wachman One
Of Speakers

Plain Grove Grange was host to Lawrence County Pomona grange at the last meeting. Pomona Master W. H. McCullough presided. The morning program was devoted to the business program of the organization with quarterly reports from the subordinate and juvenile granges of the county.

Lawrence County Pomona is purchasing a heifer and sponsoring the project of soliciting other organizations of the county to send a carload of heifers to Europe for animal rehabilitation. A number of important resolutions were adopted by Pomona to be sent to our lawmakers.

Master of the Plain Grove grange, Mr. Cory, extended words of welcome to the assembled group with H. Leslie, Big Beaver grange responding. Mrs. John Robinson, East Brook grange very pleasingly entertained the group with two readings—"Wakin' the Younguns" and "Revery in Church".

Jacob C. Wachman of Greater New Castle Association spoke on topic—"How To Build Urban and Rural Relations." He stated that a large percentage of positions in city are developed from farm products or needs. One university made a survey of various types of work on the farm and reported that 101 rural industries are available. If we want free economy in America we must have farmers in councils. Farmers are not socialists or communists. They do not want doles or subsidies, but a fair price. In this machine age we must actively think and plan our business. Mr. Wachman paid tribute to the youth from the farm who were recruited in service. They were reliable, dependable and exercised teamwork.

Mrs. Carl Mason, Wilmington grange, very delightfully sang two Irish numbers—"When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Mother Macne". George Young, East Brook grange, discussed poultry raising. He stated that chicks should be ordered from high producing flocks. The chief source of income from chickens is the eggs while the chief item of cost is the feed. It costs less to keep a high producing hen than a low producer.

The first of the series of the traveling Bible program will be April 3. Willard grange presents the program at Pleasant Hill grange.

The next regular Pomona meeting will be held June 4 with Pleasant Hill grange as host.

staunch soul in the House or the Senate will muster up the courage to call for dates, names and places before handing to the executive a third of a billion dollars to dole out for "relief". One of the ominous features of this latest request is that the bulk of it is supposed to go to the aid of certain districts in Romania. This despite the fact that the puppet government in Romania—directed by Stalin—thumbed its nose at us when we suggested a fair election and in the United Nations has consistently opposed all our ideas and suggestions.

If anyone, including the President and the State Department, can tell us why we should continue to pour out money to European countries which are satellites of Russia and incurably hostile to the United States, we will gladly donate the brass ring from the merry-go-round. There are several solvent and prosperous countries in the world besides the United States of America. Doesn't it ever occur to anybody that somebody besides Uncle Sam should squeeze a few dollars out of the pocketbook?

its being done elsewhere. No matter how much they earn, they may still demand that their parents buy their clothes, cigarettes, pay their doctor and dentist bills, and even give them extra spending money.

Cannot Condemn Them
Yet we should hardly condemn these youths. They are only expecting or demanding from their parents what they always had been accustomed to receive. It takes more than a day for parents to develop a splendorous youth who makes them both their slaves and constant Santa Claus.

In justice to the parents, money is not the largest issue involved; of greater concern is the wrecking and weakening of the moral fiber of the youth himself and the peril to his own economic future as a person and member of his community. What promise does this sort of youth have for helping to support and bring up a happy family of his own by and by?

Fortunate the child who while growing up learns to be very economical in the use of money, who practices in thrift and saving, and who budgets his money when he begins to earn. Lucky is the youth who exercises economic independence of his family as early as possible and feels responsibility not only for his own clothes and their care but also for helping his parents and other members of the family when they need it. He will be too proud to expect money from them which he doesn't really need regardless of their economic status. And, when employed and living with his parents, he will insist on paying board, or investing an equivalent or larger amount in permanent capital or savings.

More at length I discuss such matters in my bulletin "Allowances" to be had in a stamped envelope by addressing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, N. Y.

STRICT PARENTS

"I am 18 years old and a high school graduate. Although I am now earning my living, my parents think I should not have the liberties that other girls enjoy. They watch me closely and do not allow me to see any boys or go out with girl chums. I have been corresponding with a boy now living in another city. He and I went all through high school together. Soon he is coming here to visit his relatives and will ask me for a few dates. I am sure but I know Mother and Dad will put up the same barrier. What should I do?"

Answer: Unless your parents have great reason to suspect you of being untrustworthy out of their sight, they are behaving in a most abnormal manner.

Assuming that there is no such reason for their attitude, I advise you to have a heart-to-heart talk with your Mother explaining to her that although you enjoy hers and your Dad's company, it is normal and right for you to demand the companionship of both boys and girls of your own age.

You should be permitted to entertain your friends, under proper supervision in your home and to be entertained in their homes. This creates popularity and healthy, happy youngsters.

Tell your mother that you have been writing to this boy. Don't deceive her. Explain to her that he is coming to visit and that you intend to see him. Ask her if you might give a party for him and your other friends. As I stated previously, unless she had definite reason to suspect you or unless she had definite reason for disliking him, her attitude is unfair and unnatural. A girl of eighteen is old enough to "go out with boys." There is no use in trying to combat this urge. It can't be done!

Question: In filling out a check for professional services to a doctor, is it correct to use the title? In other words, which is correct: "Pay to order of Dr. John Smith" or "John Smith, M. D." or merely "John Smith"?

Answer: Either "Dr. John Smith," "John Smith, M. D."—not merely "John Smith."

Present your problems to Miss Martel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

55 1/10% INCREASED COSTS

17 6/10% FREIGHT RATE INCREASE

Why freight rates are going up...

Since 1939, railroad employees have had three general pay raises totaling 52 6/10%, and the prices of fuel, materials and supplies have risen 61 1/10%.

But when the war ended in 1945, the railroads were still hauling freight at rates no higher, and in some cases lower, than when the war began.

Without increased revenues, railroads could not meet these costs and also provide improvements in equipment and facilities—improvements that are essential for the low-cost freight and passenger services which are necessary to America's high standard of living.

Under these circumstances—and almost a year after the last major wage increase—the Interstate Commerce Commission recently approved an average increase in freight rates of 17 6/10%.

Of all the price increases in America today, few have been so little and so late as that in the price of railroad transportation.

How important are healthy railroads to a prosperous country?

Only when the railroads are financially healthy can they provide the new equipment, improved road beds, and better terminal facilities needed for still better service to you.

The defense of the nation depends upon the continuance of the efficient transportation which served the nation so well in the last war.

The railroads are among the largest employers of labor. They buy over 100,000 different products. They pay big taxes—taxes which are spent not only for public schools, public health, and police and fire protection, but even for highways, airways, airports and inland waterways.

Railroads are America's lifeline—keeping goods flowing among the 48 states day and night in all weather.

They can continue to do this only if there is a reasonable balance between income and outgo. Like yourself, the railroads must make ends meet!

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Two Young Boys Attempt Robbery, Police Are Told

Two young boys, neither over 10 years old, attempted a stick-up with a cap pistol in Hamilton street extension at 9:30 p. m. Monday. Their intended victim, Myrtle DeJohans, fought them off. The boys fled. State police are searching for the youthful "bandits".

According to her story to state police, the woman was enroute to Tanner's store when one of two boys, asked her the location of Galbreath avenue. She told them. She visited the store and on her return trip, one of the boys leaped toward her, pointing a cap pistol while the other boy attempted to snatch her purse which was attached to her arm with a strap.

One of the boys ran away during the struggle which caused his companion to yell on him to come back, and when he didn't he, too, fled.

MERCER COUNTY MILLAGE IS SET

MERCER, Mar. 11.—Mercer county's 1947 tax levy was officially fixed at nine mills by the county commissioners when they formally adopted the new budget after the expiration of the inspection period. Commissioner Roscoe R. Simons said no objections had been raised to the figures and that, with the exception of an addition of $1,000, the budget was approved as previously published.

The increased allotment will go into the law library, making a total disbursement of $2,026 to pay for much needed repair and maintenance.

The county tax rate, which is the same as for 1946, allows seven mills for county expenditures and two mills for the institutional district.

Prosecution Of Dog Owners Starts

Informations Filed Against Fourteen Dog Owners In Neshannock
Township By McLure

Prosecution of dog owners in Lawrence county has been started. Informations having been filed yesterday against 14 Neshannock township dog owners, who failed to secure licenses for their canines as required by law, by dog law investigator Howard McLure. They will have hearings before Justice of the Peace James Frisbee, of Shenango township, March 18.

Only 6,000 out of the 10,000 dogs licensed last year have secured tags. Investigator McLure stated today, and the prosecutions will continue in various sections of the county.

Constable Clyde White, of Pulaski township, is aiding Mr. McLure in that district. Complaints having been made that dogs in that township have gotten out of hand.

Final Rush On To Pay Income Taxes

Saturday Deadline Date Is Nearing, Division Chief Funkhouser Warns

Only four more days remain in which income taxpayers can file their returns for 1946, and their estimates for the coming year, if they are liable, Division Chief G. A. Funkhouser, of the New Castle Division office reminded county taxpayers today.

Business at the local division office, second floor, Post Office building, has been perking up during the past week and the personnel at the office here has been kept comfortably busy every day during the past week, as the final date approaches.

Competent deputies are on hand to assist local taxpayers with their problems, and the taxpayer is reminded that he should have his W-2 form with him if his income is subject to withholding tax, or his form 1099 and all pertinent information with him when he comes in to file his return so that he has less time to wait and does not delay fellow taxpayers.

Sheep Raisers To Attend Gathering

Tri-State Sheep And Wool Growers Will Have Two-Day Meeting In Waynesburg Last Of Week

Friday and Saturday of this week the Tri-State Sheep and Wool Growers association will have its annual meeting in Waynesburg, Pa., with a comprehensive program having been arranged for the occasion. Several of Lawrence county's leading growers are expected to attend the sessions.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt traveled 243,827 miles during his 12 years in office.

IN THE OPEN

Against his better judgement the countryman occasionally lets the small fry in his household talk him into joining the fun on the hillside snow slide out beside the house. Snowed in for the third weekend in a row, he abandons plans for a trip abroad to greet the arrival of another March, and resigns himself to putting about fixing broken tire chains and cinder driveways and muttering grumpily as he tries to straighten out a fender badly smashed while skidding at a glassy street corner.

He considers another attack on the burdened walks with the snow shovel, but the steady fall of snow on the moderate breeze untouches him and the shovel stands untouched in its corner. His first mistake is in allowing himself to be caught dressed for snow work when the youngsters show up with their sleds for an hour's good coasting. Never let it be said he is too old for a quick run down that greased-lightning slide!

Another Great Adventure
Remembering his mishaps of other years he rolls his corduroys down over his knee boots, so that he won't scoop up a half bushel of snow in each boot as he careens madly down the hill. Fresh snow has covered the track with a coating so deep that some trail breaking is necessary and he is chosen unimously to make the first trip. Someone pushes a sled at him and there he is, poised for another great adventure and in a spot where there is no turning back.

Slowly and carefully he settles his 200-pound bulk on the sled, which promptly sinks in to the "gun-whales" and refuses to budge. He grabs the rope, puts his feet on the steering bar and hitches himself self along through the yielding snow. Suddenly the sled gives a shudder as the sleds find the track, and he is off down the hillside like a scared rabbit. Blinded by the flying snow he makes a valiant attempt to negotiate the slide, but is soon off the trail on a wild ride into the great unknown.

With a sort of sneering leap the sled careens over the mound where he had neglected to evict some homesteading ants last Summer.

At this point he loses all control and takes off in a southeasterly direction, minus all dignity, ploughing head foremost into the cold, wet, drift edging the flower beds. He comes up sputtering to find the sled still racing along home fifty yards farther down the hill. As he goes after his runaway steed he notices a twinge in his knee joints.

Back Up Hillside
Bravely he starts back up the hillside, carrying the sled under one arm and brushing off snow with the other. He remembers how easy it used to be to guide a sled with the toes while riding "belly whoppers". He waits his turn at the starting point, then picks up the sled and starts out on a run like a ten-year-old. At the right moment he leaves his feet and comes down on the sled with a sickening thud that nearly knocks the wind out of him.

Before he can recover from this unexpected wallop the sled has again jumped the track and is bearing down on one of his choice currant bushes. He executes a wide curve by dragging his left foot and clears the bush by inches, only to become aware of the elm tree looming up dead ahead. This scares him into another exhibition of wild clawing at the snow and he saves his neck by a narrow margin. The sled runs free in an exciting dash across the wide open space and he is beginning to enjoy himself when the "jump" at the foot of the slope abruptly ends his coasting for another year.

Rolls Him Free
Flying along at express train speed the sled suddenly hits the hump and leaps high and far, bringing him down with a rib crushing blow which rolls him free right into a stand of burdocks. These welcome him with open burrs. At this point he regains his mature judgement and stalks painfully into the house, leaving the sled right where it landed in the gully.

March, the "lengthening month" of the Anglo-Saxons, is here again with its lengthening days. When we get past the present unusual spell of delayed Winter, and the March hare gets mad enough, maybe the weatherman will bring along some of those glorious days when the maple sap starts running and the countryman starts thinking of getting in his early potatoes and that annual row of sweet peas. I hear that there are a few robins around, but so far I have not run across any but the usual Winter birds.

This morning as I rolled out to greet another snowy day, my back complained loudly and my ribs felt as though they had been caught in a powerful bear hug. There's a slight bruise on one shoulder. I wonder what could have caused all these aches and pains?

EVENING TEA FOR READING CIRCLES

March meeting of the Reading Circle took the form of a delightful evening tea Monday in the home of Mrs. Brant E. Sankey, 225 Hazelcroft avenue, with members of the Junior Reading Circle as honor guests of the evening.

Two interesting papers on problems confronting the world today were the highlights of the evening's program. Mrs. B. M. Rodgers' topic was "World Food Problem" and Mrs. R. R. McGeorge discussed "Reconstruction of Invaded Countries." Mrs. Clinton R. Kennaday presided over business during which the circle voted a contribution to the Red Cross. Mrs. Bernard Hook was introduced as a new member.

Mrs. A. Pearson, first sponsor of the Junior Reading Circle, and Mrs. William Carr, president of the Junior club, both spoke briefly on the work of the younger organization and told of a project of special interest to the club.

Later when tea was served Mrs. Laura Parker, who was president of the Reading Circle when the Junior club was organized, presided at the tea service. Centering the tables was a lovely arrangement of spring flowers.

Mrs. Clarence Ruthrauff and Mrs. Ethel Renz Ferver were chairmen of tea arrangements.

A special guest present was Mrs. Edward McNamara.

Next meeting will be April 14 in the home of Mrs. T. L. Nixon, Pulaski road.

Health Talks

City Health Superintendent

SYPHILIS AND TUBERCULOSIS
Syphilis and tuberculosis cause a lot of trouble in the world. They are sly fellows. They creep up on people like a fox.

A person may have the disease in his body for many years and not know about it.

They may be doing a lot of damage quietly and silently so that there are very slight signs of trouble.

Health workers have found that routine examinations are very helpful in finding these diseases in the early stages before much damage is done.

Sometimes it seems rather wasteful to examine large numbers of people who seem to be healthy.

One person who has one of these diseases can spread it around to a good many others.

Marquis James tells of "ONE OF METROPOLITAN'S GREATEST YEARS—1946"

IN LINE with its long-established "Open Book" policy, Metropolitan recently asked Marquis James, noted historian and a Metropolitan policyholder, to write the Company's Annual Report to Policyholders for 1946.

Mr. James was unusually well equipped to do this because he had just finished, at the request of the Company, a three-year study of Metropolitan's operations from the time it was founded. The results of this study have been published by the Viking Press under the title of "The Metropolitan Life, A Study in Business Growth," on sale at any bookstore.

In Mr. James' report of the Company's operations for 1946, he tells a story of continued progress in service to policyholders.

He points out—

- that payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries last year exceeded $630,000,000.
- that 2,400,000 people bought new Metropolitan policies in 1946.
- that the amount of new insurance purchased in 1946 topped anything in Metropolitan's 79 years in business.
- that the gain in insurance in force set a new high record.
- that the Company had one of the lowest death rates in its history.
- that, despite a trend toward increased costs caused primarily by a continued decline in interest rates earned, the Company has found it possible to continue dividends on Ordinary and Industrial policies during the coming year at the same rates as during 1946.

Mr. James' report is much more than a compilation of statistics. Among other things, he discusses the social value of Metropolitan's investments. For example, he characterizes Metropolitan's housing program as a——"vivid demonstration of how private enterprise works for the public good."

Whether or not you are a Metropolitan policyholder, you will find the Annual Report to Policyholders well worth reading. To get your free copy, just fill in and mail the coupon below.

Community Farm Meetings Planned During The Week

Community Extension Meetings Arranged For Wednesday And Thursday Evenings

Community extension meetings have been arranged for Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week in Lawrence county which will attract residents of the rural section of the county. These meetings have been arranged by the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension association.

The first of these will be Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Liberty Grange hall. The program will feature motion pictures and a discussion of 4-H club work. Miss Emmeline Mehlman, new home economics extension worker, will discuss preparation of foods for freezing, while Earl Moffett, farm management extension specialist of Penn State college, will tell how to get more dividends from farming.

World War Two Vets Reinstate Insurance

Large Number Have Taken Advantage Of Renewal Opportunity Since February First

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 11.—Almost a quarter of a billion dollars worth of National Service Life Insurance has been reinstated by 42,031 World War II veterans in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware since February 1, the veterans administration insurance service announced here today.

During the past two weeks, February 18 to March 4 inclusive, 17,824 veterans in the tri-state area reinstated $105,108,000 in insurance, or an average of $5,897 per policy. Recent legislation gives veterans until August 1 to pick up their term insurance by paying two months premium and submitting a statement that they are in as good health as when the policy lapsed. After that date, a medical examination will be necessary.

VALUES OF RAISING GOOD CALVES SHOWN

Several thousand beautiful, thrifty, good-type calves were sired by the 132 bulls used in Pennsylvania artificial breeding units during 1946. In some herds using the artificial breeding service the calves are no better looking than ordinary calves. In other herds they are outstanding. The difference depends on the feeding and care of the calves. It is impossible to correct the mistakes of improper feeding and management of calves when these animals become mature.

Many dairymen could profit by following the calf-raising program used by 4-H club members. This is a program of feeding the correct amounts of milk, grain, and hay. Their calves are not turned out on pasture until they are a year old, because the young calf cannot properly digest grass. All during the calf-raising program each 4-H club member weighs or measures his calf to see how it is growing compared to growth standards for each breed.

One of the tests of the value of the program came at the 1947 State Farm Show. In the open classes, 4-H club members placed first or very near the top in practically every class. The 4-H club production records on mature animals also prove the value of raising good calves.

A copy of the 4-H club calf-raising program can be obtained at the Agricultural Extension office, No. 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

Of all the items that make up the household budget, utility services are the only ones of importance that have not increased. The price of electric service to the American home is substantially below that of prewar years in spite of increases in wage rates, costs of fuel and other materials, and taxes. Accompanying charts show the decrease in price and the increase in use of service for residential customers of the Company for the past ten years. Included on the charts are corresponding averages for the State of Pennsylvania and the nation. For the year 1946, the average use per residential customer of the Company was 1,535 kilowatt hours, compared to approximately 1,260 for the state and 1,330 for the nation. The average price paid for residential service by the Company's customers was 3.08 cents per kilowatt hour, compared to approximately 3.45 cents for the state and 3.23 cents for the nation.

As of December 31, 1946, the Company was serving over 94% of all the farms located in the area served. Any line extensions that may be required by further rural development will be relatively insignificant compared to the farm line extension program which has been completed. The more important part of farm electrification in the future is that of utilization of electric service in the processes on the farm. The above chart shows the extent of farm electrification in the area served by the Company.

Construction expenditures for the year totaled $1,330,917. Had materials been available as required during the year, the total would have been far greater. Due to this condition, much of the construction contemplated has been carried over into 1947.

The most important item of construction is the addition to the Company's New Castle steam-electric generating plant. This addition includes a new boiler and turbo-generator unit, which will increase the total capacity of the plant from 40,000 kilowatts to 88,000 kilowatts. The second unit, which was scheduled for completion late in 1946, is now expected to be in operation in late 1947.

Employees of the Company, in addition to a high degree of job security, receive a number of benefits not enjoyed by many occupations and trades. Among these are paid vacations, liberal sick leave, paid holidays, retirement pensions, and group life insurance. These benefits, we believe, contribute to the fine service record of Company employees. Out of 433 employees on the payroll as of December 31, 1946, 47% have been employed more than 10 years and 18% more than 20 years. The average length of service of all employees is 10 years.

THE Annual Report of Pennsylvania Power Company has been mailed to our stockholders and employees. This Report should also be of interest to you as a customer, and we are here publishing important features from it.

More than 91% of the Company's preferred stockholders reside in Pennsylvania. Much of the preferred stock and many of the Company's first mortgage bonds are held by educational, religious and charitable institutions and by insurance companies. We recognize our responsibility not only to maintain adequate service to our customers at reasonable rates, but also to preserve the soundness of our securities and thus continue to merit the faith which these customers and security holders have in us.

I wish to commend all employees for their loyal, faithful and efficient services.

REPORT POINTS OUT AREA ADVANTAGES

The trend in the area toward greater industrial prominence and diversification was continued during 1946. Forty new industrial enterprises were established last year, with estimated employment of 1,500. In addition, 18 existing plants completed or are making substantial additions to their facilities. The initiative that prompts these new enterprises is a healthy sign for the country as well as for the immediate area benefited.

FACTORS FAVORABLE TO INDUSTRY

in the area served by PENNSYLVANIA POWER COMPANY

ELECTRICITY—Power for the area comes from the New Castle steam-electric generating plant, reinforced through interconnections with several large electric utility systems.

WATER—Pymatuning Dam, located at the northern edge of the area, impounds the largest body of water in Pennsylvania and controls the flow of the Shenango River. The Mahoning River, which is controlled by a series of dams in Ohio, joins the Shenango to form the Beaver River just south of New Castle. Ample water resources are thus available for industrial and community use.

RAILROADS—The area is served by the Baltimore & Ohio, Erie, New York Central and Pennsylvania systems.

HIGHWAYS—Four main U. S. Highways pass through the area. Established highway freight service of 36 hours or less is available to all major centers east of the Mississippi with the exception of the deep South.

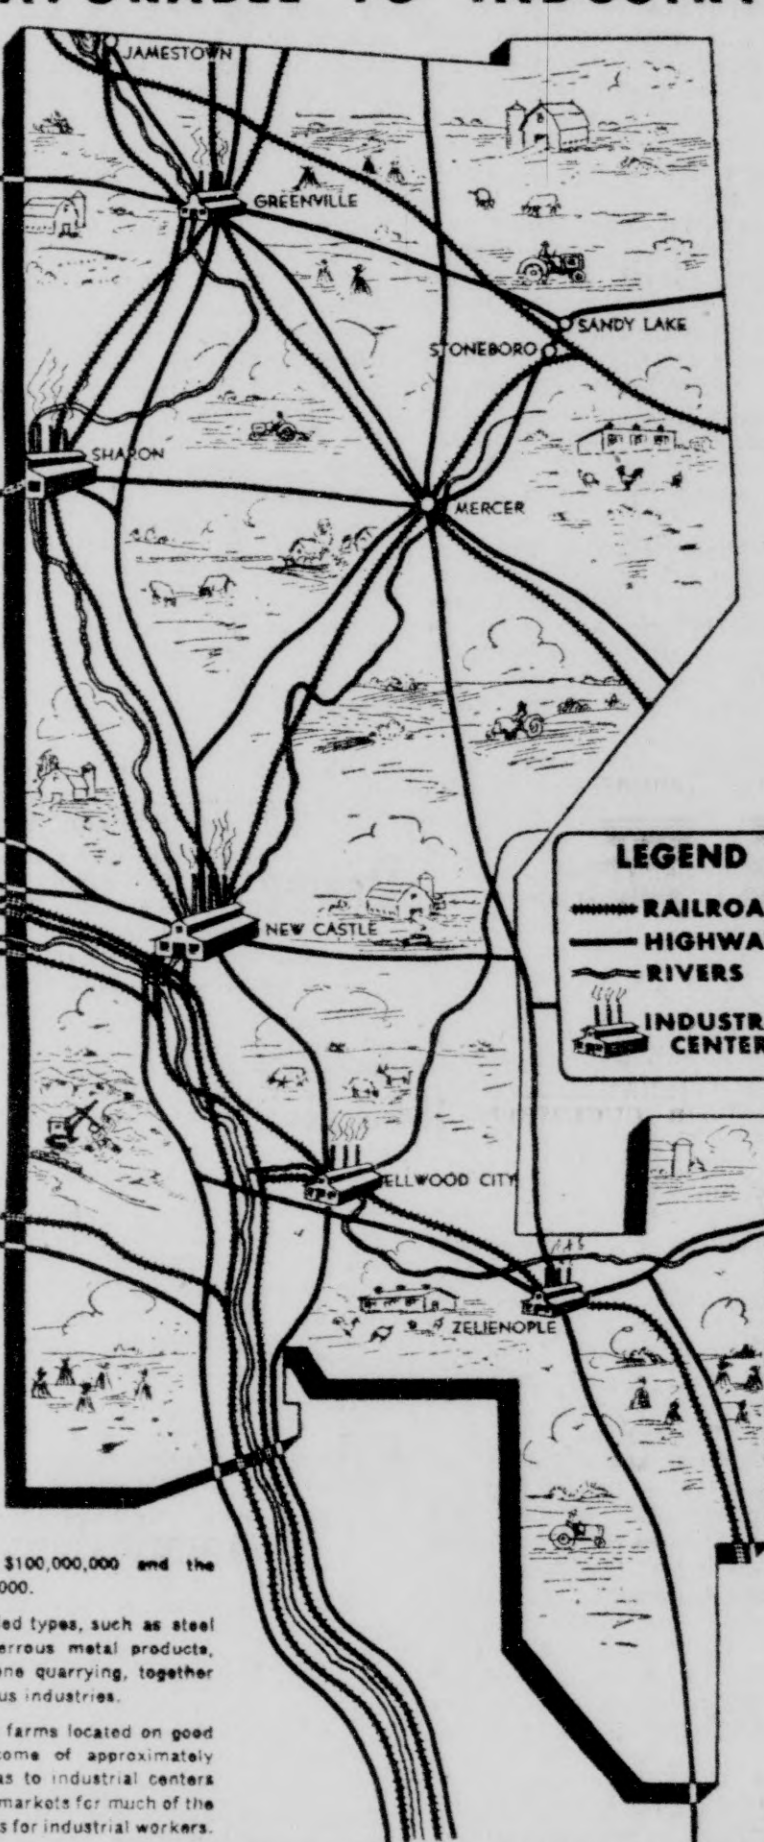

MANPOWER—Good labor relations characterize the area. Some of the larger industries were affected by the nationwide strikes in early 1946, but local conditions have been exceptionally harmonious for many years.

MARKETS—The area is midway between the eastern seaboard and the Middle West. Within 500 miles is located 56% of the country's population. A wide variety of raw materials and semifinished products is available within the area or at a distance of 50 miles or less. Coal, limestone, steel and aluminum shapes, glass, cement and brick are close at hand.

MANUFACTURING—According to statistics published by the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs, there are, within the territory served by the Company, 307 manufacturing establishments, employing about 42,500 workers. The yearly pay roll is over $100,000,000 and the annual value of products almost $400,000,000.

These industries include widely diversified types, such as steel fabrication, clay products, cement, non-ferrous metal products, chemicals, electric equipment, and limestone quarrying, together with a great number of small miscellaneous industries.

AGRICULTURE—There are about 9,400 farms located on good roads, producing an estimated cash income of approximately $25,000,000. Close proximity of farm areas to industrial centers is mutually advantageous, providing ready markets for much of the farm produce, and healthful living conditions for industrial workers.

Around Hollywood

By JOHN TODD

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—(INS)—A bride of less than two months, Ella Raines, sees her husband only four days a week. That's the result of circumstances. Her husband, Major Robin Olds, is in command of a jet photographic squadron stationed at March field, near Riverside, 60 miles from Hollywood.

He's able to get up to Hollywood Friday night and stays over Saturday and Sunday and then he gets up again Wednesday night.

Ella, now working in "Jeopardy" for Universal-International, said: "It's not too bad, but it's rather lonesome on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays."

"To tell the truth I'm going up there to try to get away from myself."

"I'm going to blow a fuse if I'm not put into a picture soon." Rod, one of the town's nicest guys, is thinking about buying a boat. He's been looking at a 45-foot schooner offered at a bargain price. At the same time he's about given up the idea of buying a new plane to replace the one he cracked up.

"My enthusiasm for flying has waned a bit," Rod said. "I think it would be rather fun to have a boat. Then, if you didn't feel like doing anything, you could just lie down on the deck."

Your reporter got to talking about the theatre the other day with Anne Revere, an academy award winner and one of Hollywood's best actresses. Anne, now working in "The Secret Behind The Door," was one of the organizers of a movie-theatre group which was disbanded recently.

She made it plain she's not thinking of getting involved in another. "It isn't worth the trouble," she said.

Then Anne, who came from the Broadway stage, made a startling statement.

"I think the calibre of acting on the screen is, as a whole, better than that on the stage," she said.

The concept of a mile was introduced into Britain by the Romans and was 1,000 five-foot paces.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must, like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. Garden Notes

Work on the lawn can start sooner than most people realize. Grass seed may be sown on thin spots just as soon as the ground is no longer soggy.

If there is much freezing and thawing many small uncovered rock plants are lost by being heaved out of the ground and dried out. In any event, many of them need replanting now.

Examine all trees and shrubs which were moved last fall, or during the winter, so as to be sure they are not loosened from the soil or heaved out by the frost or wind.

All old leaves, stalks and trash should be removed from vegetable and flower gardens now, but care should be taken not to uncover bulbs completely at first, nor to injure the new growths on herbaceous plants.

Some kinds of perennials, for instance, delphiniums, started in March, according to locality, will flower this year. Two kinds of vegetable seeds to start in the house now are early celery and early tomatoes.

Indians Stave Off Third Period Rally To Move Into Finals

Hennon Passers See Big Lead Melt As Section 12 Quint Tries To Salvage Contest; Redskins Revive To Cop Last Quarter Game; Play For W. P. I. A. L. Crown Friday Night.

(By News Staff Writer)

DORMONT, Mar. 10.—For better than 10 minutes minutes here last night, Wampum High's W. P. I. A. L. titular aspirations hung by a thin thread.

Snowden High of Section XII behind 13 points going into the third stanza, and the apparent victims of a Wampum massacre, came to life as though they had been touched with live wires—outscored the Lawrence cougars, 17-3 and took the lead 27-26 as the packed gym burst into rafter-roaring pandemonium.

It was not until the final four minutes of the tilt, with the score 32-30 in favor of the Hennon passers, that the Redskins settled down again to find the range and stack up their lead to finally win 40-32.

In Finals Friday

By virtue of their well-earned triumph here last night the Indians will now move into Pitt Stadium Friday night to engage the winner of tonight's Irwin-West Newton clash in the finals.

This is the first time the lads from the banks of the Beaver have advanced so far in the tourney and to say that the borough of Wampum is excited about the big game coming up would be putting it extremely mildly.

Kanagy-McConkey Shine

For the Hennon-coached flippers it was again Dave Kanagy, the great senior forward, who showed the way. Accurate Dave potted six fielders and a charity toss to amass 13 points, while secondary honors for the night went to Jimmy McConkey, Snowden's flame-thatched forward, who dumped in 12, most of them during the third period turn-about.

Chuck Haenig played a fine game for the losers, getting nine markers, while the work of the colored aces, Spencer and Wilson, also stood out. Coach Hennon found good performances in his reserves. Grinnin, Armario, Mohr and Miller—these lads coming through in fine style when McMillen and Jackson were waved to the dressing room on personal fouls just when the game reached the white-hot stage.

Have Easy Half

The Indians had an easy first half, bewildering the Southerners with a steady, pinching attack and throwing up a tough barricade against the Snowden attack which seemed to lack sureness and timing.

It was in this half of the game that Kanagy was "hot", parting the cords from all angles on great shots, and playing a bearcat game on the defense.

Ray Jackson got the first two points of the evening on a rebound, but Snowden tied it momentarily on Wilson's foul and Haenig's lay-up, 3-3, but Kanagy dumped in three counters and Badger tipped one in to give Wampum 11 points. McConkey's net netted Snowden four as the period ended.

Keep Moving

It was all Wampum in the second period, as the fans wondered just how far away from the Section XII tossers the Indians would gallop. Kanagy continued his tattoo on the benches, making the prettiest shot of the night, one from the side on a line heave, while little "Red" Mohr twice sneaked under on a fast break to cash in easy lay-ups. Wampum led at the intermission, 23-10.

Whatever Coach Joe Giannatelo told his Snowden charges during the halftime wait, we don't know, but it must have set them aflame. Led by McConkey and Haenig they took the bit in their teeth to peck steadily away at the Indians lead and move in front.

McConkey started things with two set shots to make the score 23-14. Procopio added a Wampum foul toss, but Wilson flicked in a rebound and it was 24-16. At this point Ed McMillen was forced from the Indians lineup on personals.

Melt Wampum Lead

The unstoppable McConkey hit with a charity throw and then stole the ball to make a lay-up and it was 24-19. Spencer added a push shot and Haenig climaxed the spurt when he arched in a set, put his team in the lead on a lay-up, 25-24, and added a foul to make it 26-24. McConkey threw in a foul but Ray Jackson got Wampum's lone fielder of the period to pare the lead to 27-26 favor the Section XII men.

Grinnin layed in a beauty to give the Hennon lads the lead again, 28-27, but Haenig's foul knotted it at 28-28. Grinnin and Procopio hit with set shots but McConkey showed he had plenty of fight by doing the same and Wampum led 32-30 with four minutes remaining.

Wampum fans groaned. Desperately the Redskins, their lineup sprinkled with reserves, played out the string. Armario got a lay-up shot, and McConkey flipped in a foul as the scoreboard read 34-31. Kanagy got his last two-plyer on a neat center court push and Procopio was found under the hoop on a break play to up it to 36-31. Spencer tossed in the last Snowden marker on a foul and Grinnin ended the game with a side set to give Wampum the victory, 40-32.

Falcons-Pulaskis To Tangle Sunday

Indications point to another capacity crowd at the Arena basketball court Sunday afternoon March 16 for the "battle of the year" between the Polish Falcons and the K. Pulaski Club. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

This is a grudge game as the Pulaskis hung it on the Falcons in the tourney last year 54 to 47 to win the championship. A hot contest is in prospect.

City League To Meet Thursday

Managers And Officials Will Discuss 1947 Season, Deadline For Teams Entering Loop

City baseball league managers and officials will have an important meeting Thursday evening, March 13, at Carm's place on West Washington street at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

Thursday is the final day for teams to enter the league. All teams must have their franchise money at the meeting or in the hands of Treasurer Michael "Jake" Bobovsky before the meeting.

At the moment there are five teams wanting franchises besides the 12 who operated last year. Final action on the size of the league will be made by the 12 managers who had teams in the league last year.

For Managers Only

Owing to the nature of the meeting Thursday, only managers who represent teams will be admitted to the meeting. Only one man for each team in the league. There is considerable work to do and a tremendous amount of discussion will be necessary, therefore, it is thought wise to limit the number attending.

Interest in baseball in New Castle is growing by leaps and bounds. Never has so many teams sought to join organized baseball. The consensus of opinion seems to be that no more than 16 teams can be accommodated in the league. It may be necessary to split the league into two divisions of eight teams each.

In class "B" Irwin high's Knights play their semi-final game against West Newton with the tip-off slated for the McKeessport Vocational floor. The victor of this tilt will tangle with Wampum, who rapped Snowden last night in Dormont, 40-32, to claim their right to the coveted prize.

Members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association will meet at eight o'clock tonight in the Court House.

Persons holding membership tickets are expected to settle for them tonight. The money will be used to buy pheasants.

Shenango Valley Beagle news: Winners stake has been changed to April 12-13. Furness starts April 14, and the international event will be held April 19-20. The local club's third annual derby will be held March 23, with a drawing at 8 a. m. for both classes, instead of 8:30 a. m., as announced in a bulletin. Commencing April 20, the training area will be closed six weeks, the reopening to occur June 1. . . Here & There has several nice flys to try when trout season comes in. Recently at Hialeah, the wrong horse was posted as the "show horse". Instead of Alene, Dinner Hour was the "show horse". The track calmly paid off $10,000 to holders of tickets on Alene which returned a price of $2.90 for each $2 bet. Those who held tickets on Dinner Hour also got their money. . . Dizzy Trout, pitcher, pulled a fast one on Warren Brown of the Chicago Herald-American, who asked his pitching secret. Dizzy replied: "It's simple. Nobody likes to hit a man who wears glasses." . . . Russell Baxter battles Larry Huff in the Arena, Wednesday night.

Leo Duercher says that if Pete Reiser doesn't break a leg, Dem Bums should make up for the pegman they lost in a play-off last fall. "His injury last summer was the difference between our club winning easily, and losing the play-off to St. Louis," The Lip reported. . . Arnet's winnings doesn't include the Widener event which he took at Hialeah before losing at Santa Anita. Relative to their wins Armed has won 26 of 42 starts; Whirlaway, 32 of 60 starts; Sycmyle, 24 of 96 starts; Assault, 10 of 24; Seabiscuit, 32 of 89; First Fiddle, 23 of 95; Sun Beau, 33 of 74; Pavo, 14 of 30; Alsab, 25 of 51; Quipose, 29 of 51; Challendorn, 20 of 44, and Busher, 15 of 21.

Dutch Delnert, one of the all-time greats of basketball, suspects the boys nowadays dribble too much and try too many razzle-dazzle shots. The old Celtic guard, who played with Peter Barry, Joe Yachnick, Davey Banks and other unbeatables, about 15 or 20 years ago comments: "Nowadays they can shoot anyway, with either hand and from any position. I do feel there is too much individual stuff today; too much dribbling, for example. We used to think dribbling was to be used to get out of a trap when you couldn't pass. Now they weave all over the floor that way. . . Primo Carnera is coming to town in April month. . . He'll wrestle here."

Umpire Beans Reardon has his own method of handling Lippy Leo Duercher he told a Long Beach, Calif., club. "When Leo rushes me and gives me the lip," says Beans, "I say, 'Yeah, Yeah, Yeah, a few times and then I point one hand toward the clubhouse and the other toward the bench, and I say, 'Leo take your choice.' He takes his choice and the guy hasn't won an argument from me yet."

Croton Midgets And Dribblers Win Opening Tourney Games At Washington Floor

TOURNEY RESUMES PLAY WEDNESDAY

New Castle's recreation tourney got under way before a good crowd at the Washington High floor last night. Two more games will be played Wednesday night when the Junior and Senior Allstar teams of the National and American divisions meet. The first game will start at 7 p. m.

The Croton band and twirlers, directed by Professor Hoffmaster, gave a great deal of color to the games. A selection by the band was played between quarters and at half time. The fans were greatly taken by the selections and are looking for them back on Thursday, the night of the finals.

In the Midget game the Croton Midgets won over the Irish of Mahoning by the score of 35 to 9. N. Cook, D. Colalucia and Nemo were the big guns for Croton while J. Pecarro and N. Perotta were best for the Irish.

Dribblers Beat Wolverines

In the second game the dope bucket was upset when the Dribblers mangled the much talked Wolverines by the score of 35 to 26. Veri and Liverson were the aces for the Dribblers and Ferris and Martini for the Wolverines.

The fans who attended got a kick out of the tourney. It is an excellent idea for teaching youngsters the fundamentals of basketball and fair play that will pay off in later years.

They've abandoned boxing and in fact, cut out all work, excepting for a short walk or run tomorrow to keep their muscles loose for the contest that will find Baxter either going up or down the ladder Wednesday night.

Miller Boxes Sharpe

There'll be action aplenty in the semi-final when Ray Miller, Ellwood City, take on Joe Sharpe, Pittsburgh, at 133. Miller loves to slug. Eddie Starr, Ellwood City, will slug with Gene Brinks, Pittsburgh, in another six rounder at 145.

Benny Newkirk, former local amateur who has turned pro, will box another ex-amateur, Charlie Nulph of New Bethlehem at 144, in a four-rounder, while Sammy Mosely, Pittsburgh, will open the hostilities with Sonny Jordan of Clearfield at 133.

In anticipation of a large crowd seeing Baxter in his first hometown appearance as a professional, extra seats have been placed in The Arena and, with the prices right, prospects for a good fight are bright.

Umpires Will Meet Tonight

The scheduled meeting of the Lawrence County Umpires will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Court House.

It was announced by Dal Hartman. The umpire will discuss the approaching baseball season. With enlarged leagues this summer, more officials will be needed than heretofore.

Sportsmen Revolver Shoot On Tonight

Members of the Sportsmen Revolver club will have a practice shoot at The Cathedral range tonight at 8 o'clock. The umpire will be Secretary William McKee. There will be a business meeting at The Cathedral range on March 18th at 8 o'clock with plans being made for a big banquet.

Baxter, Huff End Training

Fighters Resting Until They Meet Wednesday Night In Arena

NEWKIRK, MILLER, STARR ON DOCKET

Having dolled themselves to a physical pink, Russell Baxter, this city's flashy boxer and Larry Huff, Pittsburgh's slugger, are resting until Wednesday night when they engage in an eight round pro' bout in The Arena.

Baxter has trained with Bill Bradley, the city's foremost amateur middleweight, and reports he is down to 160 pounds, ready for the fight, and hopes to win, either by a knockout or a decision.

Huff has trained with several Snaky City battlers and having defeated Ted Turner a week ago in Pittsburgh, didn't require much polishing to be in good condition for Wednesday night's scrap.

Baxter hopes that the Huff bout will be the turning point in his career, which has suffered somewhat since the night he met Mike Berkovich in Youngstown. Since then he has lost several bouts, won one and drew in two.

Defeated Jimmy Lee

His best performance, and it may be said, one that was outstanding, was staged several weeks ago in Chicago, when he upset the dope by defeating the good Jimmy Lee.

That is worth noting about the fight. Huff's basic career includes battles with Young Charlie Zivic, Henry Jackson, a tall punisher, clever Art Kimmel, Red Stein, Alvin Young, Sonny Jordan and he flattened Regis O'Brien who had won five straight.

They've abandoned boxing and in fact, cut out all work, excepting for a short walk or run tomorrow to keep their muscles loose for the contest that will find Baxter either going up or down the ladder Wednesday night.

Capacity Crowd At Arena Watches Fast Basketball Battles

New Castle Scholastics Trim Shenango "Y" Five 36-26 In Preliminary Game

Optimist Club Venture Tremendous Success Monday Evening, Over 2,000 Fans Attend

Basketball history was written in New Castle last night at The Arena on Grove street, with over 2,000 fans jammed into the spacious building for the Westminster College Titans-New Castle All-Star game which the collegians won by a mere whisker, 59-57, thrilling the fans who had turned out for the Optimist Club benefit game.

General Chairman of the Optimist benefit game, Gus Slovinsky, was gratified at the turnout, the largest crowd that ever saw a basketball game in New Castle. Another Optimist Club venture has proven a tremendous success.

Scholastics Trim Opponents

The New Castle Scholastics (the New Castle High team for 1947-48) won the preliminary game from the Shenango "Y" Five 36-26 in a contest that pleased the fans. Jimmy Jancic and Don Black paced the Scholastics in scoring with 14 and 9 points respectively. Bobby Lee, the former New Castle High and now Pitt Panther grid star, was the shining light in the Shenango "Y" lineup with 12 points—all long set shots.

The Scholastics flashed good form and had the crowd pulling for them after trailing the first period 5 to 4, to lead at the half 14 to 11, and at the third period 25-20. The Shenango boys had height but lacked the speed of the Scholastics.

Skating Revue Pleases

Following the preliminary game Stanley Shaw, owner of The Arena, staged a skating floor show for the fans with members of The Arena Skate Club taking part along with several from out-of-town. The show, narrated by Larry Conti at the "mike", moved along gracefully and drew thunderous applause as the skaters gave the fans every conceivable form of trick and fancy skating. The spinning was sensational, the acrobatics left the fans breathless.

The following took part in the Skating Revue: Roy Myers and Rosie Weaver, spinning artists; Johnny Wigdon, Bill Fondrick, Johnny Lombardo, Joan Hoover, Phyllis Reed, Carmen Ross, Al Melcher, Jean Crossen, Lucy Costa and Mary McCracken, all of New Castle; the Hazen brothers, Ethel Venore and Irene Hudsphal, all of Ellwood City; Roger Young, Melvin Guy and Nick Donovan of Mercer.

New Castle has definitely entered "basketball bigtime" after last night. The fans showed by their attendance that they like good basketball. Never has the city seen such enthusiasm as was displayed last night—the fans were thoroughly satisfied with the entire show. The Westminster Titans put on a good show as they battled the All-Stars, directed by Coach Bill Douglass of New Castle High.

All that the locals lacked was a few practice sessions together for team-work. They moved the ball well and matched the Titans in field goals with 22 apiece. The Titans made 15 out of 22 fouls and the All-Stars 13 out of 17 charity throws.

Koszela Star Performer

The All-Stars did not have several good men they had hoped to have but nonetheless gave the Titans all the battle they desired—and how the fans ate it up. Emerging from the contest as high scorer was a New Castle Purple Heart winner in the late World War—Eddie "Cash" Koszela of the Polish Falcons with 18 points. Koszela was a whirlwind as he pumped in one long shot after another.

Back of Koszela in scoring was the great "Chucking Chet" Dembinski of the Titans, the leading scorer in the Tri

Ecclesiastics Win Cortland Game

Ecclesiastic Club passers advanced to the quarter-finals of the Cortland, O., tourney last night by whipping a favored Youngstown Fireproofing team, 50-48, in a thrilling cage battle. The locals will play the winner of the Salem Vets-Newton Falls game tonight at the Ohio city.

"Rags" Gencock, Vince Kelley and Lindy Lauro supplied the bulk of the Ecclesiastic points with "Red" Ross and Nick Gencock feeding well. Santangelo's double-decker in the dying moments of the game proved valuable also.

All Ecclesiastic players are requested to be on hand tonight for the quarter-final battle. The team should contact manager Gallagher some time today to learn the starting line-up of the contest. Phone 2041-31.

Two Places Left In Garden Tourney

North Carolina State And Bradley Latest Two Teams Picked For Tourney

NEW YORK, Mar. 11.—(INS)—Basketball fans believed Monday that the two remaining berths in the national invitation tournament, which starts in Madison Square Garden March 15, will go to either St. John's, Long Island university or City college.

North Carolina State, which accepted a bid Sunday, was the sixth team selected. The Wolfpack, who won 25 games and lost four, captured the Southern Conference title Saturday night.

Other finalists already picked are West Virginia, Kentucky, Duquesne, Utah and Bradley of Peoria.

East Brook Team Meets Wednesday

East Brook baseball club will hold a practice session at the East Brook school house Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced with all members of the 1946 team and others who are interested, urged to attend.

Cleveland Indian President Bill Veeck picks the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox to fight for the American league pennant this year. The prediction was made after Veeck watched the Bengals work out. He added that the Tigers "have the best pitching staff . . . in both leagues."

Johnny Bengtson, of Philadelphia, who brought Penn State its only intercollegiate boxing title a year ago, is still on campus but unable to compete because of a back injury sustained in an automobile accident last summer.

Grove City's highly-gearred offensive is entirely satisfactory to Coach Jim Loveless, but the Crimson monitor is drilling minor changes in defensive play into his charges as they go into the last four games of the basketball season.
